

BOCB – Veritex Community Bank Innovation: Veritex TrueAccess

The technology team created Veritex TrueAccess, the ability to sync via open application programming interface (API) to other applications, as a solution for customers, regardless of the size of the business, that will allow them to connect real-time access of their banking transactions to other operational applications they use to run their business.

With the launch of TrueAccess, Veritex joins the likes of other global banking leaders who use a standardized API called “open banking” to empower customers with tools and processes enabled by third-party apps.

By providing this technology, Veritex Community Bank is helping our customers make better financial decisions that will lead to their growth and view the bank as a leading innovative institution.

Led by our Chief Technology Officer, Jason Savage, Veritex TrueAccess is the first of many ways Veritex Community Bank works towards providing innovative banking solutions to the businesses we serve.
